Tipsy Tuesday: 10 Best Party Wines

By Elizabeth Green

À santé, mes chéries. It's Tuesday here at The Salonniere, and you know what that means – it's time to get tipsy. Today, we've invited 10 food and wine experts to share their favorite summer party wines – wines that are refreshing, delicious and versatile but also affordable enough to serve at soirées. You'll never believe that these nifty and thrifty libations are all $20 or less per bottle. So, shh, doll. We won't tell if you won't. With that, we'll turn it over to the virtuosos of vino.

Maureen Petrosky, author of *The Wine Club* - I like the 2013 Bridge Lane White Blend from Lieb Cellars. It retails for $20 a bottle but you can buy the box, which is about four bottles, for only $48. I know this sounds crazy, since I've never come close to finding a wine in a box that I would recommend, but it's the best boxed wine I've ever tasted and it has fooled many of my wine geek friends. If you're having an even bigger party, this wine comes in a disposable keg. I mean wine in a keg?!?! That would definitely be a conversation starter at your next summer soirée.
